

Gabriele Basolo

Hi, I'm Gabriele Basolo, Full Stack Developer and Sysadmin.

For 20 years I have been designing and developing user interfaces and web and mobile applications with particular attention to the stability and security of the application.

I have been involved in the development of interfaces since the dawn of Web 1.0. I have followed the evolution of this fantastic world. I learned the Back end techniques that allowed me to become autonomous in development, I use the most popular CMS and Frameworks to help me in my work.

I take care of designing and subsequently developing the best solution for the customer in line with what their activity and business needs.

To offer the best professional solution I take care of coordinating a collective of professionals in the field called: commonweb
